

A Voice will mean the Government will have better quality information about First Nations communities and issues, delivered directly by a body of First Nations representatives.

So, for the first time, instead of our government telling First Nations people what is best for them, First Nations people will have a chance to explain to the government what they think is best.

OUR UNION'S COMMITMENT

UWU is a union proud of its diverse and powerful membership and continues to work with our members to make Australia the best country we can for working people, their families and communities.

At the founding convention of United Workers' Union 450 Delegates representing 150,000 members came together to build power for working people. One key commitment that we made to each other was our support for the Uluru Statement from the Heart.

UWU members like you overwhelming supported a YES campaign and want our Union to be leading conversations in workplaces and across the Nation.
